MORAY PLACE INVESTMENT COMPANY

INTERIM REPORT AND FINANCIAL STATEMENTS for the six months to 31 March 2023 (unaudited)

ABOUT YOUR COMPANY

Moray Place Investment Company (MPIC) was formed on 2 May 2012 as an open-ended investment company and started trading on 15 May 2012. It is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority in the UK as a non-UCITS retail scheme.

The company is intended to be a long-term investment vehicle for like-minded individuals. It is low-cost, straightforward and free of the conflicts of interest that bedevil the money management industry.

MPIC's objective is to preserve and then grow the purchasing power of its investors' capital. The investment manager believes that it is most meaningful to assess MPIC's progress over a full economic cycle, which is typically five to ten years. Over this time frame useful comparators include UK consumer price inflation, the yield on long-dated gilts, and equity indices.

MPIC expects to achieve its objective primarily through owning shares in established companies listed on stock exchanges around the world. It will not borrow, use derivatives, short-sell securities, or invest in property directly.

The investment approach is uncomplicated, disciplined and patient. The investment manager also believes that it is conservative, if idiosyncratic. MPIC is not designed to appeal to a broad constituency. It is only suitable for investors who can evaluate the merits and risks of such an approach: if you cannot, or it makes you uncomfortable, or it simply does not suit your psychology, you should not invest.

LETTER TO SHAREHOLDERS

Dear fellow shareholders

The company exists to protect and then grow the purchasing power of its investors' capital. I believe that over an economic cycle owning businesses is the best way to achieve that goal. MPIC uses stock exchanges as a convenient way to own a variety of businesses.

Richard Feynman was a great physicist and thinker in the last century. He said that the future is unpredictable because life is too complex to understand fully. Yet, we must make choices. To do so, Feynman argued, we need a "philosophy of ignorance". That is an approach to life when we do not, and cannot, know the future.

As with life, so with investment. I have anchored my investing philosophy of ignorance to three traits of businesses. First, owning businesses offers a form of protection against inflation. Inflation decays the purchasing power of monetary assets such as cash, bank deposits and conventional bonds. The decay has been chronic since money lost its tie to gold and became backed only by political promises. However, inflation does not chronically decay the value of real assets such as gold, property and businesses.

Second, the value of businesses tends to grow. This is because most businesses distribute only a part of their profits as dividends to owners. The retained profits are reinvested back into the underlying business, which generates more profits, which in turn beget yet more. This is a practical example of compound interest. Thus, a portfolio of companies has a persistent tendency to compound its underlying business value – regardless of how share prices fluctuate.

Finally, businesses are not inert. They are living organisms – communities of people with a purpose. People do make mistakes. However, they are also adaptable, resilient and ingenious, which is valuable in a world that we do not understand fully.

Protection against inflation, the compound interest effect of reinvested profits, and human ingenuity are wonderful traits of businesses. No other asset combines these features. Yet, owning shares quoted on stock exchanges can be distracting. Fluctuating share prices can lure intelligent people into bad habits. The worst habits include the following.

- Trading too much. Trading incurs hidden costs. Also overlooked are the hidden risks. Investors often swap hazards they can see and understand for those they cannot see and do not understand.
- Owning companies led by narcissists, promoters or publicity-hounds. This can work, but relationships with good people are more lasting, and less stressful.
- Chasing trends, fashions, intellectual fads and other mass delusions. Financial manias are social epidemics spread by dramatic price moves. The allure is quick profits, but beware fast losses. Slower profits in neglected companies are more enduring.
- Obsessing about an uncertain outlook. The outlook is always uncertain. What changes is not the uncertainty but investors' complacency.
- Unrealistic expectations. The stockmarket is not an easy route to rapid riches. It is a way to invest hard savings for satisfactory, if erratic, returns.

John Templeton was a great investor and thinker in the last century. He had a succinct philosophy of ignorance for the stockmarket. He said, "The best time to invest is when you have money. This is because history suggests that it is not timing which matters, but time."
